JERSEY CITY'S DRYEST SUNDAY. Extraordinary Efforts to Be Made To-day

to Shut Up the Liquor Places. That the lid will go down good and hard today in Jersey City, at least so far as the saloons are concerned, is the assurance of Chief of Police Monahan and Mortimer J. Gleeson, president of the police board. As the result of the startling disclosures made by Gov. Fort's Excise Commission in its seasions in Jersey City on Monday and Tuesday last the police and other officials throughout the county are to make to-day the dryest Sunday in the history of the county. Prosecutor Pierre Garven is to have all his detectives at work seeking violations of the Bishops' law, and in addition to this Samuel Wilson, superintendent of the Civic Righteousness Federation, will be out with volunteer sleuths to discover if the police are really doing all they

For the first time in the history of the Jersey City police department not a single cop will be excused from duty. Every man with the exception of those away on vacations will be pressed into service in the work of spotting saloonkeepers who may be bold enough to work the "side door game" or conduct "speakeasies" in places other than the barrooms.

Special orders for the excise sleuthing

Special orders for the excise sleuthing were issued yesterday after a conference between the police commissioners and Chief Monahan: They provide that one section of the force shall be on duty from 8 A.M. until 1 P. M. and another section from 1 P. M. until 6 P. M. The sections ordinarily on day patrol Sundays will work from 8 P. M. until 11 P. M. Sergeants and roundamen will be required to patrol from 8 A. P. M. until 11 P. M. Sergeants and roundsmen will be required to patrol from 8 A. M. until 1 P. M., and sergeants and roundsmen ordinarily on desk duty Sundays will be required to patrol from 2:30 to 6 P. M. and 8 to 11 P. M. The precinct captains are ordered to assign the men so that each cop will have a definite number of saloons to watch. The captains are ordered to report to their precincts at 10:30 A. M. and port to their precincts at 10:30 A. M. and remain on duty until 11 P. M.

In anticipation of the closing of the saloons to-day the average householder accustomed to slaking his thirst on Sunday put in a stock of bottled goods yesterday. The beer bottlers did a rushing business.

NO MEDICINE FOR DYING BABY. County Authorities Take Up a Christian Science Case in Palisade Park.

Coroner W. W. Curry of Hackensack will confer with Prosecuting Attorney Koester this morning regarding the holding of an inquest into the death of James B. Black, the eleven-months-old son of Frank A Black, who lives on Broad avenue, Palisade Park, N. J. The child died yesterday morning, attended by a Christian Science healer. Dr. Joseph S. Van Dyke of Palisade Park, who was asked to give a death certificate; declined to do so and notified the Coroner, who granted the burial permit, but said he had not yet decided about an inquest.

Mr. Black is in business in Manhattan.
It is said that his wife recently joined the Christian Science church at Englewood.
Mr. Black told the Coroner that he himself not a Christian Scientist but that his wife was.

Dr. Van Dyke was called to the home of Mr Black on Friday morning and found the child in convulsions. He prescribed the child in convulsions. He prescribed for the child and in the afternoon called again. On this second call, he says, Mr. Black paid him and said that he wouldn't need his services further, as they had engaged a healer. Dr. Van Dyke heard nothing further of the case until vesterday morning, when he again was called at the Black home, this time to determine whether the child was dead or not. He found the child was dead or not. He found the

Mr. Black then asked him to give him death certificate. Dr. Van Dyke asked it the medicines he had prescribed had been given to the child. Mr. Black said, according to Dr. Van Dyke, that the prescriptions had not even been filled. The healer, Florence W. Bull of Palisade, was present

The Bergen County Medical Society is to take the matter up at a meeting on Tuesday It is understood that members of the society favor pushing the case as much as they can as Mr. Black is quoted by the Coroner as saying that although he had not yet paid the healer, he expected to do so; this, in the opinion of the doctors, will go far toward proving a case against the healer of pracedicine without a license in viola-

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS PROFESS GREAT CONFIDENCE.

Norman E. Mack Already Sees a "Sweeping Victory"-Kern and Ollie James Can Hardly Walt—Tom Taggart Suggests That the Cheering Begin Right Now.

DENVER, July 11.-The exodus from Denver is in full swing to-night. Only the national committee remains. It will leave in a body for Lincoln to-morrow afternoon and will be received at the Bryan home on Tuesday morning.

Speculation as to a chairman to succeed

Tom Taggart of Indianapolis is futile. There are a number of aspirants for the place, but Bryan will make his own se-lection.

The day has been given up to predictions and prophecies concerning the fate of the ticket named by the Democratic national convention. John W. Kern of Indiana, the candidate for Vice-President, is more than hopeful He is to leave in the morning for Lincoln and will be with Bryan for several days. It is quite impossible to appreciate or to accept the statements of the Bryanites concerning the result in November next. This is the way Chairman Taggart views the outlook:

"Indiana will go for my old friend Kern, and the South can, of course, be counted on to give its solid vote to our cause. We had a convention composed of the best and most intelligent Democrats of the nation and the platform they adopted and the men they named as the party's standard bearers are a guarantee of success. Tammany will help us out, and we might just as well begin to cheer now."

Urey Woodson, secretary of the national committee, was just as confident as Mr. Taggart. He hails from Kentucky. "The South has never failed to roll up a good solid Democratic majority, and this year will be no exception," said Mr. Woodson. He was asked if the friendship of Southern Democrats had been sacrificed by the fact that the convention did not put a Southern man on the ticket.

"Certainly not," Mr. Woodson replied. "We could have frad Ollie James of my State if we had wished it. But Kentucky is in the list of certain States, and the convention chose the State that is doubtful with the hope of winning it. I think Mr. Kern will carry Indiana, and Tammany has never failed us, so I do not see any use of worry-

Norman E. Mack, New York's member of the naticonal committee, was ready to lay a good wager on the success of the Democratic ticket.

"With Tammany and the solid South with us, Kern certain to carry Indiana and the West enthusiastic in having a Western man at the head of the ticket, what room for doubt is there? We shall have a sweeping victory that will astound the Republicans of the nation," was the declaration of Mr. Mack

Gov. Haskell of Oklahoma had a two fold reason for prophesying the success of the Democratic ticket. "First," said Mr. Haskell, "the country is just recovering from a severe financial depression. Always when an administration has the misfortune to record a panic the people are prejudiced against that régime. A second reason lies in the fact that the country can trace the depression suffered last year to the tolerated inflation of stock. No party is able to survive such a record. It is just like the night out being inevitably succeeded by a hendache. The Republican party has had its 'nigh, out' and will now have the headache. I carried Oklahoma by 30,000 majority and Bryan can go 10,000 better."

Ollie James of Kentucky, one of the striking figures in the convention, had a great deal to say about the failure of the Repub-

"We always hear the Republican party touted as the party of prosperity and Democracy decried as the apostle of adversity. said Mr. James. "The administration of President Roosevelt has shown that the Democrats have no monopoly on adversity There are 2,000,000 idle men in the United States. They are the workingmen who four years ago were promised a 'full dinner pail.' The pail has been filled these years by the charity of free soup houses.

"Kentucky will go 25,000 strong to Bryan and Kern. The South will lend its usual helping hand and Tammany will go down the line for us. We are as good as elected

T. E. Ryan, who is beginning his ninth year as Wisconsin's national committeeman, says that victory is certain. He says that even his State will go Democratic, although for years the Republicans uninterruptedly have held control.

"The reason for this," Mr. Ryan declares, is that there is dissension in the Republican ranks, the La Follette wing of that party being dissatisfied. In 1892 Wisconsin went Democratic on account of the tariff issue, and that seems to be what is going to swing her into line this year. The matter is quite as important now as it was then and the problem just as difficult of solution. Wisconsin will be for Bryan. In fact the whole country will be."

Senator Gore of Oklahoma was also positive that Bryan and Kern are to sweep the deck in November.

Brya believes that he is to carry the Pacific slope, the Western and the Middle Western States. To do this he will have to overcome the heavy pluralities for Roosevelt in 1904. A glance at these pluralities, in view of Bryan's usual optimistic views, will be interesting. They were as follows: California, 115,823; Colorado, 34,582; Idaho, California, 115,823; Colorado, 34,862; Idaho, 29,303; Illinois, 305,039; Indiana, 94,944; Iowa, 158,706; Kansas, 126,093; [Michigan, 227,715; Minnesota, 161,464; Missouri, 25,137; Montana, 13,159; Nebraska, 36,682; Nevada, 2,885; North Dakota, 38,322; Ohio, 255,421; Oregon, 42,934; South Dakota, 50,114; Utah, 29,03; Washington, 73,442; Wisconsin, 156,-657; Wenning, 11,159

29,03; Washington, 78,342; Wisconsin, 186,-057; Wyoming, 11,159.

These tremendous pluralities for Roose-velt in 1904 give Taft, according to mathe-matical politicians, a great start. Bryan believes that there is to be a political revobelieves that there is to be a political revo-lution this year. The aforesaid mathe-matical politicians, a number of them in the Bryan camp, admitted to-day that it will be necessary to have the dandiest kind of a political revolution for Bryan to over-come these Rocsevelt pluralities in States which Bryan believes he is to corre-

which Bryan believes he is to carry.

Bryan cannot, according to opinions expressed to-day, carry a single Eastern or New England State. The Roosevelt pluralities in these States in 1904 were as follows: Maine, 36,791; Massac usetts, 92,076; New Jersey, 8,013; New Hampshire, 20,185; New York, 175,552; Pennsylvania, 509,519; Rhode Island, 16,766; Connecticut, 38,180; Vermont Island, 16,766; Connecticut, 38,180; Vermont, 30,682.

West Virginia gave Roosevelt in 1904 31,775, but there is a bad split in that State in the Republican factions. The Bryan Democrats said to-day that they would certainly carry West Virginia and they have high hopes of Indiana.

Most of the national committeemen spoken to to-day thought that Bryan on Tuesday would announce that Chicago is to be the headquarters in this fight. Col. Roger C. Sullivan said that he would journey to Lincoln with his fellow national committeemen to greet Bryan.

The national committee and its guests had a jollification to-night. The function marked the close of two weeks hospitalities on the part of the people of Denver.

Among the notable functions have been a dinner given by Mrs. Alice Roosevelt

Mrs. Engle is 60 years old and is a well known figure on the Roanoke market.

"Of course I am happy to hear of John's nomination," she said. "I predict that he will be elected. I have been trying for years to persuade John to quit politics, but it appears that I have not succeeded. In my last letter to him I advised him to let politics alone. Indianapolis to Have Non-Partisan Reception-Fairbanks's Chance to Reciprocate. INDIANAPOLIS, July 11.—The civic bodies of Indianapolis will be asked by C. A. Bookwalter, the Republican Mayor, to join in a non-partisan demonstration in honor of the nomination of John W. Kern.

"I want to see all the people turn out, said the Mayor, "for it's gratifying to see a man like Kern, without money, nominated for this office because of his fitness and ability, not because of his wad. Why he's just the finest fellow I know." Four years ago when Mr. Fairbanks

When despatches were received from Denver saying that Kern would reach home on Thursday, the directors of the Commercial Club were called together and a committee was appointed to arrange for

The technical charge made against Mr. funds of Faxton Hospital to his own use but Mr Davis admits taking $10,000 from the hospital and $27,000 from the Utica Orphan Asylum. The authorities believe the amounts will exceed these figures.

To-day Davis pleaded not guilty and was held to await the action of the Grand Jury, bail being fixed at $10,000, which was furnished.

Mr. Davis had been for many years attorney for the Utica Orphan Asylum and financial agent of the Faxton Hospital. It was from the funds entrusted to him that he took the money. For six years at least the misappropriation of the funds has been going on. The explanation offered by Mr. Davis is that he used the money thinking he could double the amount quickly in investments and return the original sum, putting the profits in his own pocket. But the profits didn't materalize.

The situation in which Mr. Davis finds himself is an extremely serious one. # INDIANA A DOUBTFUL STATE

NOT BECAUSE OF KERN'S NOMI-NATION AT DENVER,

But Because of the Corruption of Republican State and County Officials Republicans Concede That There Is Doubt About the State and Legislative Tickets.

of John W. Kern of Indiana is not of itself a circumstance that gives the Republicans here familiar with the Indiana situation much concern in its bearing on the general result in that State. Mr. Kern is admitted to be a man of integrity and force, who will poll the full Democratic vote and very few more than that. He is a Democrat of the "old school," who asks no quarter in politics and gives none. Four years ago he was one of the speakers at a reception given to Charles W. Fairbanks when Mr. Fairbanks returned from the Republican national convention at Chicago with an honor at the hands of the Republicans like that which has fallen to Mr. Kern from the Democrats. Mr. Kern was solicited by the non-partisan committee that was getting up the affair in honor of Mr. Fairbanks to appear on that occasion and speak as president of the Commercial Club, one of the civic organizations of Indianapolis. He finally consented, but it required ome persuasion.

"Why should I boom Fairbanks?" Kern is reported to have said. "I am a Demo-

But he made a hit by his remarks. He did not omit, however, to remind Mr. Fairbanks that there was an impassable political chasm between them.

"Hundreds of your fellow citizens," he said, "who will fight you tooth and nail on election day, are here in generous rivalry with your most ardent political supporters as to who may best attest the sincerity of the personal friendship and good will with which you are regarded by all. "There are many of us who cannot vote for you at the polls because we do not subscribe to the political creed of which you are a distinguished representative, and we will defeat your ticket if we can, but we will be none the less your friends."

Now the Democrats of Indianapolis are busy at work on a reception for Mr. Kern. and it will be put up to Vice-President Fairbanks to do the honors and return the compliment to his fellow townsman. That he will respond there is no sort of doubt.

John W. Kern is a neighbor of the Vice-President. Their homes are within three blocks of each other. Mr. Kern has come to be known in Indianapolis as the "mouth of Thomas Taggart." He has been Taggart's legal retainer for years. He was City Attorney of Indianapolis by the appointment of Taggart when Taggart was Mayor; he defended Taggart in the courts when he was assailed by the State officers under Gov. Hanly for running the gambling auxiliary at French Lick. Kern went further and defended Taggart in newspaper interviews.

Taggart brought about the nomination of Kern at Denver. It was easy for him to do so because it was easy to convince the "rainbow chasers" that Indiana is a doubtful State. Republicans here conversant with conditions in their State admit that there is some doubt about the State and legislative tickets but the State and legislative. some doubt about the State and legislative tickets, but they do not concede the slightest doubt about the national ticket winning by from 25,000 to 50,000. The dream indulged at Denver that Mr. Fairbanks and his friends may bolt is not credited for a minute by men who know what is going on in Hoosierland. But the State is torn up over the question of local option and it is hard to say just what will happen.

Gov. Hanly, who under a recent law has

Gov. Hanly, who under a recent law has been naming the police boards in the cities of the State outside of Indianapolis, has been very severe on the traffic. He is a prohibitionist and would drive every saloon out of the country if he had the power. He once declared that he would not as Governor appoint any man to office who would take a drink of intoxicants if he knew of the fact. The Governor has arrayed against fact. The Governor has arrayed against his party the brewing and distilling interests of the State. In the campaign of 1906, under the leadership of Thomas Taggart, the brewing interests raised a campaign fund by assessment and came within a scratch of getting control of the House of Representatives of the Indiana Legislature. They had a fund of $65,000 for lobbying purposes before the last Legislature, raised by assessment on the brewing interests.

This fund was used in employing "attor-

This fund was used in employing "attorneys" and securing publicity and in other ways creating sentiment to influence the ways creating sentiment to influence the Legislature against Hanly's policies. Joseph Hell, law partner of John W. Kern, was one of the attorneys who represented the brewers and distillers before the Legislature. The fight is to be renewed this year. It has been asserted that Thomas Taggart is to have charge of the fight for election of members of the Legislature and that of members of the Legislature and that he hopes to go to the Senate to succeed Hemenway if the Legislature is Democratic. Hemenway if the Legislature is Democratic. The Democrats, by focusing attention on Indiana, ought to be able to attract a large campaign fund to that State. The two leading brewers, Crawford Fairbanks (no relation to the Vice-President) and Albert Lieber, both gold Democrats who have been acting with the Republicans since 1898, have declared publicly that they will work and vote for the Democratic State and legislative tickets this year. The Republicans, under the leadership of Gov. publicans, under the leadership of Gov. Hanly, have declared for local option with the county as the unit. The Democrats have declared for local option with the township or ward as the unit. The liberal and brewing elements have accepted the Democratic declaration as more favorable to their cause. Representative Watson Republican nominee for Governor, is mak-Republican nominee for Governor, is making local option the leading issue of his campaign thus far. The State has a large foreign population, especially German. They are very strong in Evansville, Terre Haute, Fort Wayne, New Albany and South Bend, and in the capital, Indianapolis. This class of voters gives the Republicans more concern than does the presence on the national tight of Mr. Kern.

Still another factor that may operate the national tieres of Mr. Kern.

Still another factor that may operate against the Republicans locally is the graft prosecutions in Marion county, in which Indianapolis is located. The county gave Roosevelt about 12,000 plurality in 1904, but it elected a Democratic Prosecutor two years ago. He has been recently investigating charges of bribery and graft in the county offices, aided by a special Grand Jury. About twenty indictments have been already returned, mostly against county officers who are Republicans. county officers who are Republicans. Those indicted include a former Speaker of the House of Representatives of Indiana, a county auditor and several other officers One county officer has committed suicide a county auditor and several other officers. One county officer has committed suicide since the investigation began. The investigation seems only fairly under way.

Since the election of Gov. Hanly four years ago the Republican State Auditor was removed from office and sent to the penitentiary for loaning funds, the Secretary of State was compelled to resign and leave the State, and two other minor State officers were removed for delinquencies. All this the Republicans must explain. They tried to explain that two years ago, and although Gov. Hanly took the stump and pointed to the fact that the Republicans had done their own house cleaning in the State administration the Republican majority was cut from 92,000 in 1904 to about 30,000.

So the Republicans of Indiana, scoording to the view taken by their leaders in Washington, have troubles that are more alarming than the fancied disappointment of Mr. Fairbanks or the presence on the national toket of John W. ## 17 FOOT SNAKE IN CELLAR

HUGE REPTILE INTENDED FOR THE ZOO WENT ASTRAY.

Anaconda Delivered by Mistake to a Habo ken Saloon Keeper Got Out of His Box and Held the Cellar for Three Days -Zoo Attaches Capture It at S A. M.

Albert Kaegebehn, a saloon keeper of 802 Washington street, Hoboken, and his employees, particularly those whose duties entailed frequent visits to the cellar of the establishment, heaved deep sighs of relief about 3 o'clock yesterday morning as they watched a drab colored touring car disappear in the direction of the ferry. In the car were four attaches of the Bronx Zoological Park, but what chiefly induced the manifestations of profound relief was the knowledge that safely stowed away in a wet goods case strapped to the rear of the machine was an anaconda that had held undisputed possession of the saloon storeroom for three days, to the inconvenience of Mr. Kaezebehn and his patrons.

The reptile, which was nearly seventeen eet long, arrived a week ago from South America on an Atlas Line steamer and was consigned to Commissioner Ferdinand Kaegebehn of the zoo, but owing to an error of the forwarding company it was delivered to the commissioner's brother, the saloon keeper. It was deposited in the cellar to await developments. On Tuesday Mr. Kaezebehn had occasion to tap another keg but didn't, for when he reached the cellar mallet in hand he found that the python had broken from its cage and coiled on top of a cask, with about six feet of its business end swaying pendulum like in front of the tap.

Mr. Kaezebehn had presence of mind enough to slam and look the cellar door after him as he made a streak for daylight. Then he telephoned the commissioner for advice and was instructed to keep the door locked and allow no one to go near the place until help arrived, which instructions were religiously followed. Soon after midnight yesterday the commissioner, accompanied by Dr. Raymond Lee Ditmar, curator of reptiles; Pror. Herman W. Morkel and Supt. Charles Snyder of the Zoo, arrived. Snyder had with him the python catching outfit he used while collecting boaconstrictors in northern India and took, charge of the work of respectives. opened and the lights turned on the ana

Daughter of Gov. Ansel Christens Out

Second Dreadnought at Philadelphia. PHILADELPHIA, July 11.-The second Dreadnought of the United States Navy the battleship South Carolina, slipped from the ways at Cramps' shipyard at high water at 12:04 P. M. to-day. A few weeks ago her sister, the Michigan, was launched at the yard of the New York Shipbuilding Company on the Delaware.

Mayor Reyburn, Gov. Ansel of South Carolina and Gov. Stuart of Pennsylvania were among those at the yards when the great hull, 450 feet long between perpendiculars, was released and went sliding off on her cradle over the permanent ways after Miss Frederica Ansel, daughter of the Governor, had broken the bottle of champagne over the bow.

For a moment it looked as if there might be trouble after the shoe had been cut and the battleship released. She hung upon the ways and it was fully a minute before a vigorous shove from an electric crane got her started. Once away, however, she went into the river in a flash. 'At a nod from Secretary Taylor of the Cramp firm Miss Ansel brought the bottle of wine across the battleship's bow and uttered the words." I christen thee South Carolina."

RECEIVER OF STOLEN WAGONS. Charge Against Livery Stable Keeper Now in the Tombs.

Max Price, a livery stable keeper at 229 East Ninth street, who was indicted on Friday for receiving stolen goods, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Reich and Dribben of the Allen street branch detective bureau. The police say that Price has been connected with a gang of young men who have been stealing horses and wagons on the East Side. He was arrested after the information had been laid before Assistant District Attorney McNish and as a result of a confession made by two boys who were convicted in The boys, Samuel Nathanson and Hyman Mendelson, stole a horse and wagon belonging to Herman Kohn of 522 West Twenty-fourth street. After their conviction they told Assistant District Attorney McNish that they had stolen a furniture van and a eam of horses, all worth $1,000, from the Houston Furniture Company, at 370 East Houston street. Sammy was known as the Kid, and Hyman the Dodger. While the wagon was standing in front of a house and the driver inside Sammy jumped up on the driver's seat. It was Hyman's job to watch for the driver and give Sammy lots of time to drive away with the wagon.

They said they took the van to Price's stable, and it was found there. The boys say they took two ther stolen wagons to Price's stable. They police say that in one instance Price was dickering for a reward for the return of a wagon which had been stolen, and that Price had a pit in the cellar of his place where he kept the horses and a loft for the wagons. Price was committed to the Tombs.

PISTOL TURNED ON POLICEMAN By Pollicino, Who Shot the Supposed Black mailer Demarco. Michael Pollicino, a young grocer of 519 East Thirteenth street, was arraigned in the Yorkville police court yesterday on charges of assaulting Morris Rabinowitz and of flourishing a loaded revolver in the and of flourishing a loaded revolver in the face of Policeman Nelson.

The policeman arrested Pollicino on East Thirteenth street on Wednesday night on a charge of insulting Rebecca Rabinowitz and assaulting her father, who had protested against the insult. A dozen or more Italians gathered about the policeman to rescue the prisoner. The prisoner pulled his gun from a belt about his body and pointed it at the policeman's head. Nelson grabbed the pistol, but the prisoner got away. He was rearrested subse-

WON'T CONTEST FATHER'S WILL. Mrs. Anna C. Hardesty Rejects the Advice of Friends and Counsel. WASHINGTON, July 11 .- Mrs. Anna Cammack Hardesty, a clerk at $660 in the Post Office Department, to-day declined positively to act on the advice of friends and counsel and contest the will of her father, John W. Cammack, a retired florist who died in June leaving an estate of $3,000,000. By the terms of his will the late millionaire left the estate to his second wife, step-mother of Mrs. Hardesty, and a child by that marriage, cutting off Mrs. Hardesty with the income from $50,000 for her life-

She has been advised that she could probably secure in the courts the share of the estate she would have taken had of the estate she would have taken had her father died intestate, about $1,000,000, but said to-day that she would not face the notoriety of the courts for a million dollars. She married against her father's orders-and was afterward divorced and he refused to receive her back or recognize her afterward. She sought and obtained employment in the Post Office Department and said to-day that the work was to her liking and she would continue to rely mainly upon her salary of $55 a month for a living.
